Discernment is a Relationship

Stacey Sumereau

Discernment is both easier and harder than you may think. Contrary to popular opinion, God has no one perfect blueprint for your life for you to decode. Rather, discernment calls for the cultivation of a relationship that demands everything. In this talk, journey with Stacey to reframe your thinking around the art of discernment. Learn how to avoid discernment pitfalls and practical prayer strategies to begin hearing God's callings in your life.

6:15 – 8:00 pm ET

Claiming Your Gifts of Personality

Matt and Erin Ingold

In this workshop participants gain insights on their unique strengths and motivations. By exploring the common strengths, weaknesses, drivers, and contributions of their primary and secondary temperaments, we help participants claim and tame the unique gifts and motivation styles that God gave them so they can be aimed towards their greatest fulfillment.

- Learn the basics of the temperaments and how knowledge of your temperaments can help you discern and grow.
- Students claim their common motivations, triggers, contributions, and ideal conditions for their temperament.
- Students complete their “getting the best from me” worksheet based on their worksheet responses.

8:00 – 8:15 pm ET

Finding Freedom of Discernment with The Reason Cycle

Matt and Erin Ingold

Ever feel stuck in discernment? In this workshop, we lead participants through The Reason Cycle, our foundational process for finding freedom and clarity to better discern God's will without fear or hesitation. By learning the meta-skill of cleaning your own mind through self-reflection, repentance, and meditative prayer, participants grow in clarity, grit, and resiliency.

Participants learn TRC, it's benefits towards mental prayer and discernment, and how to practice it using the Metanoia Journal.

- Participants learn how their own thoughts can be an obstacle to discernment.
 - Participants learn the process of The Reason Cycle.
 - Participants learn how they can practice TRC with the Metanoia Journal

Break/Sharing the Mission of SALT

To respond to our vocation, we need to foster and develop all that we are. This has nothing to do with inventing ourselves or creating ourselves out of nothing. It has to do with finding our true selves in the light of God and letting our lives flourish and bear fruit.

– Pope Francis, Christus Vivit

11:30 am – 1:00 pm ET

Discover Your Unique Call to Sanctity

Matt and Erin Ingold

We were created by God with a unique purpose. We want to help people discover it. The Unique Call to Sanctity workshop helps participants gain clarity on their unique vocation and purpose. By reflecting on areas of giftedness, passion, and mission, participants begin discerning practical ways that they can direct their yes and no towards activities and pursuits that align with God's grace already active in their lives.

Participants identify their Unique Call to Sanctity Worksheet and begin considering how they might begin discerning it more practically.

- Participants explore areas of mission, passion, and gifts and identify common themes.
 - Participants identify the convergence of their common themes into their UCS statement.
 - Participants consider ways of practically discerning the UCS that they identified.

Meet the Host and Speakers

Host: Carmelite Sisters for the Aged and Infirm

The Carmelite Sisters for the Aged and Infirm are a consecrated religious in the Catholic Church and members of a Congregation founded by Venerable Mary Angeline Teresa, dedicated to the service and care of the Aged and Infirm, in the spirit and tradition of the Carmelite Order.

The Carmelite Sisters for the Aged and Infirm are women who share a vision that love makes a difference in the world. The Sisters are diverse in age, background and training but are united in their belief that life is precious, from the moment of conception to its natural end. Life is full of memories pieced together to form God's handwoven tapestry.

The Sisters follow the example and vision of our foundress, Venerable Mary Angeline Teresa McCrory and minister to Christ in the person of the elderly but always return to the spiritual mount of prayer and contemplation.

The SALT Carmelite Missionary Program will foster respect for the dignity of the human person in all stages of life, with particular emphasis on the elderly. The program will bring young adults and the elderly together in mutual relationship and understanding, bridging the gap between these two generations both in the Catholic Church and in the world.

Speakers: Matt & Erin Ingold

Matt and Erin Ingold are the Founders of Metanoia Catholic, a coaching company that trains competent and confident Catholic coaches and supports them in building communities dedicated to human formation. They are the hosts of the Catholic Coaching Podcast, a podcast aimed at making mindset coaching authentically Catholic and practical.

Matt, is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, former Marine officer, and Catholic teacher and speaker. Erin is a Franciscan University of Steubenville graduate with a degree in Theology, and a Catholic Coach. Through Metanoia Catholic, both offer their combined 30 years of ministerial experience toward helping their clients bring Jesus into their interior lives and become co-authors with God in the Greatest Story Ever Told.
